Windows Update Works—in Real Time

With Microsoft® Windows® Update automatically downloading and installing the important updates, you will know that Windows Vista is getting the latest real-time improvements to security, compatibility, reliability, and user experience.

Windows Vista Supports the Hardware Ecosystem

More than 1.9 million devices¹ are compatible with Windows Vista today—approximately 400,000 more than at launch.

Thousands of Applications Are Compatible with Windows Vista

Of the 50 top-selling applications² for Windows, 48 are compatible with Windows Vista³.

All of the top 5 third-party security solutions (CA, McAfee, Symantec, Trend Micro, and Webroot) offer versions compatible with Windows Vista. Top free applications now compatible with Windows Vista include: Adobe Reader, Adobe Flash Player, and iTunes.

Windows Vista Is More Fun

Windows Vista continues Microsoft's tradition of entertainment innovation with better connectivity, intense graphics performance, and Xbox® controller capability.

Windows Vista Is More Secure

In its first 90 days, Windows Vista saw fewer security issues than Windows XP in a similar timeframe (5 vs. 18). Most early application and device compatibility issues were due to the enhanced security architecture of Windows Vista—and most major issues have been resolved.

Windows Vista Is More Reliable

Comparing the first 90 days after each operating system's launch, Windows Vista had 21 percent fewer support calls than Windows XP on a per-copy basis. Top issues are easily identified and remedied due to anonymous, opt-in Windows Vista feedback systems.
